Introduction to ATCMEE

Anhui Technical College of Mechanical and Electrical Engineering (ATCMEE, in short), located in Wuhu, is directly affiliated to the Education Department of Anhui Provincial Government. It is also known as one of the National Key Colleges and the A-level candidate college of “Plan for the Construction of High-level Vocational Colleges and Specialties with Chinese Characteristics”.

ATCMEE, as one of the first schools to be engaged in vocational education, its origin can be traced back to 1935 when it was founded as Wuhu Saint Aloysius School. ATCMEE covers an area of 75.12 acres. Currently, there are about 12,000 full time students on campus. Our college has a professional and experienced teaching team with over 610 full-time and part-time teachers, 90% of whom have both professional knowledge and practical experience.

Focusing on the mechanical and electronic industry, ATCMEE offers a range of 45 specialties. Up to now, besides 2 specialties being supported by Ministry of Finance, 1 specialty was selected in the “Plan for the Construction of High-level Vocational Colleges and Specialties with Chinese Characteristics”, 8 specialties as the key specialties of state level, and 14 specialties as provincial-level characteristic specialties.

ATCMEE perseveres with the connotative development strategy and strives to cultivate a vocational education brand of its own. Students of ATCMEE have been very competitive in many ways and have won over 500 prizes in various professional contests at both of provincial and national levels, like National Skills Contest for Vocational Colleges, National Numeric Control Contest, etc.
